MEETING BACKGROUND

The meeting “Yeast in the Genomics Era” is the 36th International Specialized Symposium on Yeast (ISSY36), a conference series organized under the auspices of the International Commission on Yeasts (ICY) (www.issy36.com). The aim of ISSY36 is to bring together academic and postdoctoral researchers, industry scientists and graduate students working in the field of yeast genomics and biotechnology to discuss the latest developments in fundamental yeast research linked to biotechnological applications. ISSY36 is led by an International Scientific Planning Committee and Advisory Board that include established members of the Yeast Research Community from Canada, the USA and 14 international countries. The ISSY series are international meetings and we expect to attract around 250-300 delegates from North and South America, the UK, Europe, Asia, and beyond. For comparison, the most recent ISSY meeting, ISSY35, attracted over 250 delegates including speakers and session chairs. The ISSY conferences began in 1964 and the last ISSY conference to be held in Canada was 42 years ago in London, Ontario, 1980. We are excited to bring the ISSY conferences back to Canada and showcase Vancouver and British Columbian yeast fermented products, including wine and beer, to the international yeast community.

MEETING LOCATION

ISSY36 will take place at the University of British Columbia (UBC), in Vancouver, British Columbia (BC) which is on the west coast of Canada. Vancouver is served by an International Airport located 13km away from UBC that welcomes direct flights from Australia, Canada, China, Europe, India, Japan, Mexico, New Zealand and the USA. UBC, which was established in 1908, is a world-leading centre of teaching, learning and research excellence. UBC enrolls ~55,000 undergraduate and ~11,000 graduate students including ~18,000 international students from 166 countries. UBC is a research-intensive university with 16 faculties, ~6,000 faculty members and $670 million in research funding. The ISSY36 welcome reception will be held at the world-renowned Museum of Anthropology and the venue for the talks and posters is the new Student Union Building, also called The Nest.

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

The focus of the meeting is 'Yeast in the Genomics Era'. We are at an unprecedented time with the ongoing sequencing of thousands of wild and industrial yeast species and strains. Understanding how yeast species have been domesticated to adapt to an industrial niche such as beer or wine fermentation is critical for the development of new and improved yeast strains. The invited speakers of this meeting are world leaders in yeast evolutionary genomics, yeast strain development, yeast metabolism, beverage and food fermentation, industrial ethanol production and synthetic biology.

The sessions of ISSY36 will include:

Ecology and Biogeography
Evolutionary Genomics
Beverage Fermentation
Yeast Culture Collections
Industrial Ethanol Production
Yeast Physiology and Metabolism
Genome Engineering in non-traditional yeasts
Synthetic Biology

Keynote Speakers:

Dr. Paula Gonçalves, NOVA University, Lisbon, Portugal
Dr. Jay Keasling, University of California, Berkeley, Berkeley, CA, USA
Dr. Corey Nislow, University of British Columbia, Vancouver, BC, Canada
Dr. Kenneth Wolfe, University College Dublin, Dublin, Ireland

Invited Speakers include:

Dr. Brenda Andrews – University of Toronto, Canada
Dr. Feng-Yang Bai – University of Chinese Academy of Sciences, Beijing, China
Dr. Paola Branduardi – University of Milano-Bicocca, Milan, Italy
Dr. Maitreya Dunham – University of Washington, USA
Dr. Matt Goddard – The University of Lincoln, United Kingdom
Dr. Jean-Luc Legras – University of Montpellier, Montpellier, France
Dr. Chris Todd Hittinger – University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA
Dr. Sakkie Pretorius – Macquarie University, Sydney, Australia
Dr. Jose Paulo Sampaio - NOVA University, Lisbon, Portugal
Dr. Joseph Schacherer – University of Strasbourg, France
Dr. Hiro Takagi – NAIST Institute, Nara, Japan
Dr. Kevin Verstrepen – KU Leuven, Belgium
